

Mary Ann Shadd Cary

<http://gardenofpraise.com/ibdcary.htm>

Mary Ann Shadd was the oldest	lived apart for extended periods of time.
The Shadd home was a stop	on the Underground Railroad.
After Mary Ann graduated from the Quaker school	she began a teaching career.
She called for education and action	help slave owners regain runaway slaves.
The Fugitive Slave Act was passed to	of thirteen children in the family.
To avoid the effects of the slave act law	edit a newspaper.
She and Samuel Ward published	black soldiers for the union army.
Mary Ann was the first black woman to	to correct injustices to black people.
She and her husband Thomas	when she was sixty years old.
Mary Ann became a recruiter of	a newspaper called the Provincial Freeman.
She completed a law degree	many runaway slaves moved to Canada.
She worked with Susan B. Anthony	to obtain the right to vote for women.